Using electricity in your tent – Be aware of the hazards

Water and electricity do not mix

- Your tent may leak and it will certainly suffer with condensation.
- Mixing even small amounts of water with electrical supply equipment and appliances results in a risk of electrocution or fire.
- Proprietary hook up equipment is designed to resist damp conditions, but is only fully effective when appliance plugs are not inserted and covers are over the sockets.
- Most domestic electrical appliances are not designed for the damp outdoors.
- Supply leads in a confined space can present a trip hazard.

Do's

- Use only proprietary hook-up equipment purchased from a reputable dealer with safety devices including an RCD and an IP rating of 44 or greater.
- Keep hook-up equipment off the ground and close to the appliances.
- Use only when someone is present otherwise switch off and remove plugs, ensuring covers are over sockets.
- Test the operation of the Circuit Breaker before plugging the appliances in.
- Be prepared to stop using electricity when conditions in the tent are damp.

Keep hook up equipment off the ground

Don'ts

- NEVER use a household extension cable, even with an RCD plug, instead of proprietary hook-up equipment.
- Do NOT use household plug adaptors: and only one appliance per socket.
- Do NOT allow children to be involved in the installation and operation of electricity.

Use only proprietary hook up equipment with safety devices including a RCD and an IP rating of 44 or greater

BBQ safety

BBQs produce carbon monoxide which is a highly poisonous substance. Without an adequate supply of fresh air it can kill quickly with no warning. Stay safe and follow these simple tips for BBQ safety.

- ✓ Never take a smouldering or lit BBQ (charcoal or gas) into a tent, caravan or cabin. Even if you have finished cooking your BBQ will still give off fumes for some hours after use.
- ✓ Never use a BBQ inside to keep you warm.
- ✓ Never leave a lit BBQ unattended or while sleeping.
- ✓ Only use appliances in accordance with the operating instructions.
- ✓ Place your cooking area well away from your tent. Always ensure there is an adequate supply of fresh air where the BBQ is being used.
- ✓ Remember the six main signs and symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning – headaches, dizziness, breathlessness, nausea, collapse and loss of consciousness. If concerned, seek medical advice.
